

The team from Kryptofranc (KYF) announce a swap from their blockchain to FRANC a TRC20 contract on the Tron (TRX) blockchain

Paris, France 03/05/2021:

Nicolas Choukroun the author of Kryptofranc announce the swapping of the KYF from their blockchain to the more established and reliable Tron (TR) block chain. The new coin will be named FRANC (FRANC) and listed at the CREX24 exchange.

The operation will take place between the 17th March 2021 and the 27th of March 2021 giving 10 days for the Kryptofranc owners to take out their Kryptofranc from the exchange CREX24.

The 6th of April 2021 swap will be completed and we will stop swapping KYF to FRANC manually. Kryptofranc will continue its life separately.

This move will give to our investors more stability, low fees, instant transactions on the TRON blockchain that is available everywhere and very secure.

It will offer to the authors the flexibility to manage their coin with a better set of features. In the context of the W.O.K project (a video game / social networking platform), these are necessary to fit the project requirements.

The 25th February the Kryptofranc (KYF) team announced the creation of Franc (FR) as a smart contract on the Tron (TRX) chain.

“The result and feature that our investors can have if we swap to the Tron Block chain are outperforming the ones that we currently have,” said Nicolas Choukroun. “It is all beneficial for everyone. Tron block chain is reliable and powerful, has almost no fees and has many wallets options on every mobile and desktop Operating System. I think that the time when authors were making their own Bitcoin clone is over. Mining has become difficult because of the mining pool optimizations, moving their hashpower to the most profitable coins automatically. The hashing power has also increased and it is easy to purchase Petahertz (Ptz) and create a mess with any block chain difficulty algorithms. It is hard to manage these new ways of mining without a large infrastructure.”

How will the swap happen?

All the holders of Kryptofrancs will have to send their KYF to the CREX24 exchange before the swap date.

After the swap, nothing will change for the investor's standpoint, their balances will be there, but KYF will work from now on using the Tron blockchain. They will need to use a Tron Wallet, add a token and select Kryptofranc to manage their Kryptofrancs from their wallet. There are dozen of options available like the popular Tronlink chrome extension.

What will happen to the pre-mine from the blockchain?
Kryptofranc pre-mined 2 Billions of KYF for the ONG and 1 Billion for the authors themselves. We will burn all the pre-mine since these are useless with a smart contract. We will keep only the coins mined since the beginning of the project in 2017, this operation will drop the number of coin in circulation considerably and only.
